

Feiker Announces New Setup

Engineers
Discontinue
Acceleration

• THE ACCELERATED PROGRAM which has been used by the Engineering School for the past two years will be dropped upon completion of the current semester, Dean Frederick M. Feiker, head of the Engineering School, announced yesterday.

Abolishment of all educational deferments by the armed services has necessitated this move, Dean Feiker stated, adding however that not very many students will be inconvenienced by this move since students with occupational deferments will be able to follow the usual peace-time curricular.

A secondary reason, in the opinion of Dean Feiker, is that students need a soaking-in period. He feels that it is essential for students to have a period of rest from intensified studying and at the same time, gainfully employ the knowledge learned in the classrooms.

Three suggestions were submitted by the faculty of the School to ease the abrupt termination of this program. First was that entering freshmen could still take three semesters of engineering the first year since the elementary and basic courses are offered in summer school anyway.

The second thought is for occupationally deferred students to take electives during the summer term which includes many of the liberal arts courses.

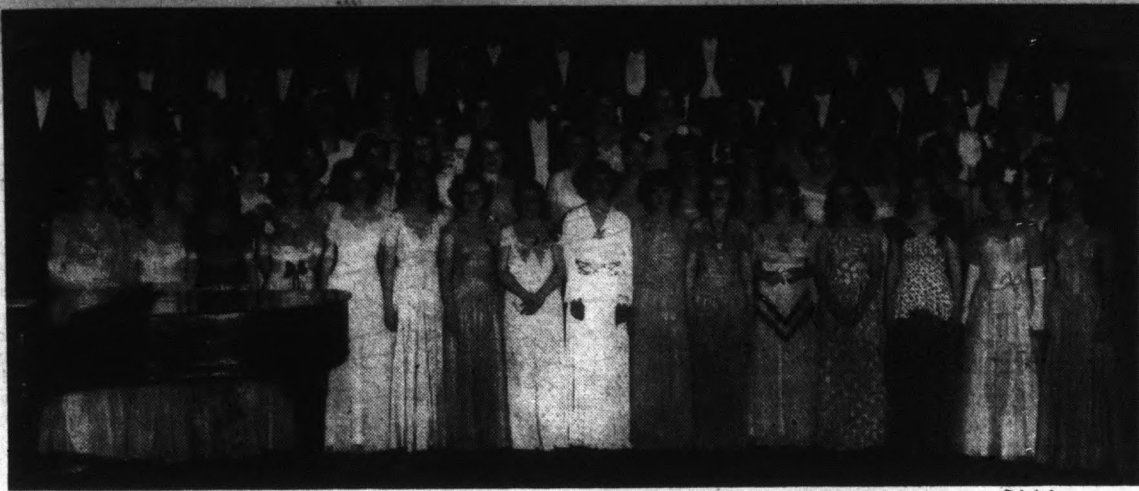

The final suggestion was that if enough men petition the Dean for a particular course, it could be handled under special arrangement.

Johnson to Speak At AK Psi Dinner At Lee-Sheraton

• ALPHA KAPPA PSI, professional business and economics fraternity, held its annual spring banquet Sunday night at the Lee-Sheraton Hotel in honor of its new members, who were initiated during the afternoon in ceremonies at Columbian House. Prof. A. Rex Johnson was the dinner speaker.

Reminding the new and old members of their wartime responsibility of carrying on the aims of the fraternity in absence of their brothers in the service, Dr. Johnson, former national officer of AKPsi, outlined the significance of those aims and their relation to the progress of mankind. Other faculty members of AKPsi present were Profs. Richard N. Owens and Ralph D. Kennedy.

Newly initiated members are Langley C. Cagle, Joseph Decker, James Hudson, and Walter Lund. Lee Page was in charge of dinner arrangements. President James Buckler announced that election of next year's officers will take place at the regular business meeting tomorrow at 8:15 p.m. in Columbian House.

Carlstedt Gets SAM Presidency

• CLIFFORD Carlstedt, economics major, was elected next year's president of the University Branch of the Society for Advancement of Management, at a meeting held last night in Recreation Hall. Carlstedt served as vice-president and program director of the Branch this year.

Following the elections, a "black-out" party and dance was held, in honor of the newly-elected officers and executive board members. Arrangements were under direction of Harmon Tyler.

Though the University Branch of SAM was just organized this year, it already become an important school activity, Carlstedt stated. He announced that plans are being made to hold a full scheduled of program meetings, devoted to study of management techniques, during the summer sessions.

Next Issue, May 30; Reason: Page Four

• The next and final issue of the Hatchet will be May 30, three weeks from today. The exam scheduled appears on page four of this issue with exams beginning on Wednesday, May 17, and running through the following Wednesday, May 25.

"Heaven Can Wait" Opens Tomorrow Night at Wardman

• "HEAVEN CAN WAIT." Cue and Curtain's third and final major production of the year, will be presented at the Wardman Park Little Theater tomorrow night, Thursday, and Friday at 8:40 p. m. under the direction of Floyd L. Sparks. The story is the same as that recently presented in the movie version "Here Comes Mr. Jordan."

The body of Joe Pendleton is "collected" by the heavenly powers from a plane crash sixty years before he is supposed to die. Messenger 7013 reported that although the messengers shouldn't let their emotions sway them, he had simply taken Mr. Pendleton from the plane before the crash and, thereby, had gotten ahead of schedule.

Joe Pendleton, played by Larry Strickland, is then returned to earth in the bodies of a multi-millionaire and a world's champion prizefighter. Some romantic interest is brought in the role of Betty Logan played by Norene Burnett.

Max Levene, Joe's manager, played by Don Balfour, is interested in Joe and wants to know, "Where's the body?" The police inspector says, "It's down at the morgue in the refrigerator." Max then yells, "Tell 'em to take good care of that body. Joe needs it to get married in!"

Developments such as this, and saxophones floating around in the air, voices from nowhere, and weird horn calls create interest in the play.

The elaborate sets were designed by Henry C. Pearson, former designer to Dock Street Theater in Charleston and Roadside and now set designer for Army films in Hollywood. Sets are being executed by the Stagecraft Department of Cue and Curtain.

WAA Banquet To be Held At Fairfax

• THE W.A.A. annual spring banquet will be given at the Fairfax Hotel at 6:30 p.m., on Saturday night, announced Barara Lyddane, social chairman. Any university woman may attend the banquet.

Marion Royce, Secretary of world Y.W.C.A. will be guest speaker, and her topic will be "The Effect of War on College Women." She has been touring American Colleges throughout the country and is well able to discuss the subject.

Toastmistress will be Gretchen Feiker, a former president of W.A.A. and now head of all U.S.O. in the district.

The tennis cup, major and minor letters will be awarded to the winners at the banquet. Also an award will be presented to the outstanding senior and junior girl in W.A.A. These awards will be based on scholarship and service to the organization.

Engineers to Hold Annual Banquet

• THE SEVENTEENTH annual Engineer's Banquet will be held Saturday night at the Y.W.C.A. at 6:30, climaxing the year's activities within the Engineering School. Principal speaker for the evening will be Mr. Ely Hutchinson, consultant with the War Production Board, who will speak on "Engineers of Tomorrow."

Rev. Hart To Deliver Address

Senior Ball Set
For May 26; Class
Night on May 30

• THE ONE HUNDRED AND TWENTY-THIRD Annual Commencement of The University will be held in Constitution Hall on Wednesday, May 31, at 8 p. m. President Cloyd Heck Marvin will deliver the charge to the graduating class.

Opening the Senior Week festivities will be the Senior Ball given by the General Alumni Association in honor of the members of the Washington Club, 1701 K St., N. W., from 5-7. Parents of the graduates are cordially invited to attend.

The Right Rev. Oliver James Hart, D.D., Bishop of Pennsylvania, will deliver the Baccalaureate Address on Sunday, May 28 in Washington Cathedral. The Academic Procession will begin promptly at 7:45.

On Monday, May 29, President and Mrs. Marvin will give a reception in honor of the members of the graduating class at the Washington Club, 1701 K St., N. W., from 5-7. Parents of the graduates are cordially invited to attend.

The following evening, Tuesday May 30th, will see the annual Class Night exercises held in the University Yard beginning at 8 p. m. The President of the Senior Class, Bill Andrews, will preside at the exercises while the awards will be presented by President Marvin.

All members of the graduating class will attend the Baccalaureate Service, Class Night exercises, and Commencement program in the traditional cap and gown. The academic costume must be obtained at Washington Cathedral on Sunday afternoon and returned after the Commencement program to the basement of Constitution Hall.

Each member of the graduating class will receive a letter from the Office of Fred J. Nessell, Registrar, in the next week which will contain all pertinent information concerning the Senior Week proceedings.

Honorary Initiates

• Alpha Lambda Delta, honorary sorority for Freshman women held its initiation Wednesday night. The new members are: Dorothy Egging, Janet Evans, Rose Harley, Emily Halichstein, Marie Le Clair, and Louise Williams.

Mortar Board Chooses Nine

• SEVEN JUNIOR girls received the traditional yellow rose of membership to Mortar Board at an impressive ceremony as a part of Parents' Night held on Lister Terrace last Friday.

Katherine Rogers Adams, Assistant Dean in the Junior College, and Edith Grosvenor Woodson, member of Hourglass which preceded Mortar Board on this campus, were tapped for honorary membership.

Formal initiation of the new members was held Saturday morning followed by a breakfast at the Statler Hotel. These outstanding junior women in campus activities and scholarship are: Betty June Karle; Glee Club, Varsity Hockey, Varsity Basketball, Basketball Sport Manager, Co-social Chairman of G.W.A.R.O.S., and Co-social Chairman of W.A.A.

The school year is all but over, and in retrospect we can see fairly well just which persons and groups have done good or poor jobs. This is our evaluation; if anything happens before graduation to indicate we are wrong, we'll gladly print a retraction.

Orchids—

To Mary Ring for getting the Cherry Tree to press in the face of enormous difficulties, for sticking by her job in spite of opposition; to the Student Council for rallying to her support, and to the campus groups who followed the Council's lead on this question; to Jimmy Huddleston and Maybelle Hughes who ran the Book Exchange more efficiently than it has been run in our time at the University; to Virginia Nalls, who has carried out the Council's social calendar in the "black" and made the affairs enjoyable besides; to Cue and Curtin, which, in spite of some missteps, remains the most spirited organization on the campus; to Dr. Jarman whose handling of his post as chairman of the Student Life Committee has been not only fair but efficient besides; to the GWAARS, to Margaret Lynn who leads them, and to the Women's Athletic Association which initiated this worthwhile project; to SAM, an energetic new organization which gives every indication that it will not fold in succeeding years.

Small orchids with a slight onion odor go to the War Planning Committee, of whose activities it might be said "too little and too late," and to Mr. Nessell, who took up The Hatchet's suggestion that the students be given an opportunity to have a voice in the nomination of "Who's Who," but who has failed to follow our suggestion that this privilege be extended to the choosing of students for other honors, a job now performed by a secret faculty committee.

Onions—

To the Forum Direction of the Student Council, who, in spite of several attempts, has never put on a forum; to the Interfraternity Council whose inefficiency we have seldom seen equaled; to the senior class president (for details see this space in last week's issue); to the student body as a whole, and certain Student Council members in particular, for letting the so-called Women's Activities Advisor walk all over them; to two brilliant young men—deans—who have not brought their intelligence to bear upon certain pressing problems in the University, or else are acting as mere mouthpieces.

Our Future

Certain remarks about The Hatchet made by the President of the University the other night at a closed meeting of students and faculty demand public airing. A direct threat, that there might be no Hatchet after this year was made.

From the outset, we wish to go on record as representing what was said, and the conditions under which it was said.

Not at any time during the year, has the President mentioned to the editor any objections to The Hatchet's policies; not at any time has he called us in to confer on personnel or other problems. It is the "behind-our-back" quality of the remarks which most infuriates us.

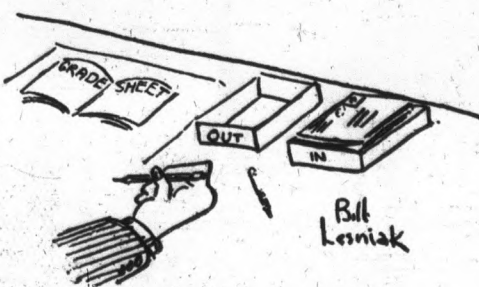

In refutation of the statement that "liberty has turned into license" in The Hatchet, we wish only to point to just a few of the reforms which have been made, due to Hatchet suggestion or criticism.

Hatchets have been sent to the servicemen of the University; a specific place has finally been promised to a fraternity which was forced to give up its house; the Women's Activities Advisor has been severely limited in her actions. Presumably, these reforms would not have been made if the Hatchet's criticisms had not been just.

Regarding the question of personnel for The Hatchet, and the problem that there might not be enough trained students to publish the paper, we wish to state the obvious facts that a student paper serves important functions on a college campus, functions which it can carry on even though it is imperfect in many ways, and that it would be easier when the time comes that trained people are available to improve the paper than to reinstate it if it had been allowed to die.

Regarding the question of University subsidy for the paper, we submit the fact that the paper is not subsidized by the University. The students pay for it out of their University fee—in fact The Hatchet is one of the few things still paid for out of that fee, which has not been reduced with the demise of intercollegiate athletics.

Strong Hall Is Opened To Males—One Night

By CHARLES DAUGHERTY

• FIVE AND ONE-HALF years of ceaseless, soul-searing curiosity was satisfied last Friday night. Five and one-half years of curiosity, the product of countless hours of waiting for girls with a lot of time and not too much consideration for the poor lug who was waiting for them, was satisfied when I, a male though a 4-F, saw the interior of Strong Hall above the first floor and witnessed the glory of a perfect evening with a full moon from the eminence of Strong Hall's roof.

For years I had watched coeds swish through the door, cannily avoiding that part of the door which is forever locked and might as well not be there for all the good that it does, glance hurriedly and hopefully through the notes which accumulate on the switchboard, pound frantically on the elevator button, and finally disappear into the five maleless floors of female habitation.

What lay beyond? In my mind's eye I saw lighted fountains, parque floors, indirect lighting, scenes of indescribable beauty repeated 110 times for every one of the denizens. That was when I was feeling good, when I was at peace with the world. During those happily rare moments when the world was a sour apple to be tasted and spit out, I envisioned hovels, motley melanges of clashing colors and millions of pictures of Frank Sinatra leering out from every angle. Obviously, the solution lay somewhere between. But where?

Once or twice, goaded beyond the point of resistance, I plaintively voiced my curiosity. It availed me nothing. My hearers would either nod understandingly and share the misery of my unfulfilled desire, sobbing that there were the rules, darn it, and they could do nothing about it. Or they would laugh rudely and with a sadistic leer intimate that the scenes of the five-floor Shangri-La were not to be profane by the gaze of the male.

And then, clothed as always in innocent garb, the miracle occurred. At the insistence of Dean Kayser, I ambled over with the parents to the Hall to sample critically the refreshments and exchange reminiscences with the maids. After waiting in line for long moments, and mentally pondering just what possessed me to wait in line to see a place as familiar as Strong Hall, I reached the interior. I agreed wholeheartedly with Prof. Alonso that it was "una noche muy linda." "Ah," I thought, "there is Mrs. Patterson. I must say hello." So I did.

"Good evening," she returned, and then added brightly, "Would you like to go upstairs?" I gaped. "What was that?" I stammered, cursing the poor hearing that along with some other things is keeping me out of the Army. "I'm afraid I misunderstood you."

"I said, 'do you want to go upstairs.' Haven't you ever been up?" I refrained from inquiring sarcastically when I had ever had the chance, and ran for the elevator. There was some difficulty in filling the conveyance with people. I guess parents have enough rooms that need cleaning not to be overly worried about 110 others that might be in the same condition. I mastered a feeling of panic that this opportunity might pass due to lack of sufficient interest on the part of the public. But at last.

So now, I have seen. I deliver my verdict. The rooms are very nice, roomy and well cared for, I didn't see a single picture of a movie star. There were many disgusting fluffy and useless teddy bears and the like on every bed. What decorations there were, were tastefully arranged. All the beds were made. Every double room has a bath. Single rooms do not, but large bathrooms with commodious showers are available. It was rather disheartening to hear the women pass with a "humph" over a beautifully fixed room, and then go into raptures over a bathroom. It doesn't make sense. But there it is.

Furthermore, the game room and roof are terrific. The view is inspiring. I have but these observations. First, a lot of good space goes to waste up there on moon light nights. Next, dates should have been provided.

Male Voices Stand Out As Glee Club Performs

• DR. ROBERT H. HARMON can do more than give medical treatment for aching ears—with deft movement of skillful fingers and an obviously overwhelming power of suggestion he can bring forth from some eighty mixed voices a melodic tone which will soothe the hearing organs of almost any listener.

Which all goes to say that under his careful conducting, the University Glee Clubs gave their best concert in recent years last Saturday night at the Willard Hotel. Not only that, but the performance could undoubtedly stand favorably against that of any other college singing group in the country.

From the rich, sombre tones of the polyphonic Russian anthems to the comic touch of a frog and his love, the singers were always under perfect control, and to give added emphasis, succeeded in imparting to the crowd their own enthusiasm, wherein many an otherwise good choral group has failed.

It remained for the draft-riddled male section, however, to steal honors of the evening. From the dirge-like tones of Verdi's Miserere to the light pastel shades of Pale in the Amber West, the group gave true harmonic effect and displayed delicate shading, for which, again, thanks to Dr. Harmon.

The Girls group performed with mechanical expertness, but failed to impart full meaning of the compositions at hand. This was especially true of Schubert's Ave Maria, albeit said that there has probably never been a good arrangement of this religious classic.

But when the two groups came together for the first and fourth groups of numbers, there was singing that for sheer perfection, quality and beauty has never been given by this Glee Clubs before (or at least in three years).

In Noble's Fierce Was the Wild Billow, the indomitable male voices once more led the way and when the "storm of death roars sweeping by"—it roared properly.

Other Editors Say:

Student Assistants Might Solve Teaching Problem

The following suggestion on a problem facing all colleges is reprinted from the State of Stevens Institute.

The announcement of several weeks ago that it is but a matter of time before the majority of young instructors on the Stevens Faculty would be drafted leaves the Institute in a precarious position. Already many instructors have completed their preliminary steps necessary in entering one of the services. Such an unavoidable loss is going to tax the older members of the faculty to a far greater extent than ever before. It is going to become increasingly difficult to maintain the usual high standards of instruction, particularly in the laboratories, at a time when it is needed most—in the instruction of naval trainees.

In normal times the College could employ the more brilliant upperclassmen to fill in the gap as assistants. Within a few months, however, all upperclassmen civilians are scheduled to be guests of General Hershey, leaving only V-12 students. The Navy, moreover, does not allow its men to accept remuneration for outside services. To alleviate this situation it would seem expeditious to amend one of the requirements for the Degree With Distinction so that instructing would be an acceptable project for an eligible naval student.

As the requirements now stand, the candidate must obtain through his Junior and Senior years a total number of credit points corresponding to a grade of "B" or better. This stipulation should not be changed. The additional requirement that the candidate should do work and submit a report on an approved project, should allow teaching as the project, subject to the need and the individual's acceptance by the Committee on the Graduate School, whose regulations govern the granting of the Degree. This Committee could frame a special set of regulations which would state the required number of hours and type of teaching which in its opinion would be the equivalent of working on the usual "approved project."

Such a change will not make the winning of a Degree With Distinction just a matter of being able to put in time without learning anything. Those who have taught know well that one of the best ways of really grasping a subject is to teach it. The learning derived from teaching can not be underestimated. The fact that student instructors can do an excellent job has already been proved in several departments. Three of the five eligible students in Term VII have already had experience as instructors either in the War Training School or the Institute itself.

Another consideration not to be overlooked is the fact that several Professors are so overburdened with work at the present time that they are unable to give help or sponsor projects desired by the candidates. Rather than have these students apply themselves to just some project as their choice, why not open this alternative to them?

The next step rests with the Committee on the Graduate School. Immediate action should be taken so that eligible candidates may be prepared to take over classes, if they elect to do so, when the present instructors leave.

Parents, Seniors, Are Guests

Johnstone Talks To Parents About College

By JUANITA HALL

• PARENTS' NIGHT and Campus day, twin functions designed to introduce the University's physical set-up and some of its many student activities to parents of University students and seniors in secondary schools of Washington and vicinity, were declared "successful" by Ruth H. Atwell, Women's Activities Adviser, in charge of the program.

Mera Riddell, brunette Phi Beta Phi, was crowned May Queen by Charles Daugherty, president of the Student Council, Saturday afternoon at Campus Day exercises held in the University gymnasium. A procession by the queen and her attendants preceded the coronation, which took place on a flower-decked throne. The attendants to the queen were: Virginia Nalls, Anne Kangas, Norene Burnette, Frances Respass, Virginia Jones, Sarah Pike, Ruth Wright, Mary Ellen Vincent, Marie Louise Ralph, Jean Koppialky, Jane Gass and Blanche Fair.

Opening of Parents' Night was held in the Hall of Government Friday at 8:15, with Dean Elmer L. Kayser presiding. The group was greeted by Jessma Oslin, who spoke especially of girls' activities; Luther Brady, mentioning a number of organizations and Phi Beta Kappa; Mrs. Betty W. Biesemeier, telling of her experiences in the classroom when she was sent back to college by her son; Senator William Langer, whose daughter asked him to speak on "marriage, made-Dean Kayser say that he was sorry he wasn't dean of that school; and Mrs. Joshua, Evans, Jr., trustee of the University, heartily welcomed all.

Dean William C. Johnstone, Jr., spoke on "College Education and the Post-War World," and said that in adjusting to diminishing staff and student body, the University had to cut out many extraneous courses. "We have found that we could do a great deal more than we thought we could. War demands have made colleges see the fundamentals of a good education."

Three standards the University wants to meet, as mentioned by Dean Johnstone, are to raise the character of the University, to teach the art of living, and to teach the art of thinking.

Sorority women acted as guides for a tour of University buildings and escorted their groups to the program on Lisner Terrace. A section of the Glee Club opened the program with two numbers under the direction of Dr. Robert H. Harman.

Seabees Swing Into Lead In IF Play, Top Phi Alphas

• MAKING AN AUSPICIOUS DEBUT with hits and runs the Seabees won a doubleheader last Sunday, to take over first place in the Intramural Softball League.

In the opening game they swamped Phi Alpha 22-7 and then went on to defeat the Medical School nine, 11-0, behind the three-hit pitching of Barry Kreisberg.

In the first game the Seabee team really had their batting clothes on. Jumping into a 4-0 lead in the first inning the Seabees romped over the offerings of Al Grenadier and Cliff Kaslow throughout the rest of the game and got in some good batting practice for their next game.

Big blow of the game came when Si Continetti hit a home run with the bases loaded in the fourth inning. In all, eleven big runs were scored in the fourth inning and when the fireworks were over, the fraternity club was beaten.

Si Wagman was the winning pitcher and Grenadier the loser. Against the Medical School the Seabees continued their lusty hitting and played flawless defensive ball in winning the game. As in the previous game they scored four runs in the first inning and ran up the score in every other inning. Going into the fourth stanza Kreisberg had a no-hitter but a clothes-line single by McCutcheon ruined it for him.

He was only in trouble once during the game and then with men on first and second with nobody out, his mates squelched the rally with a pretty double play. McCutcheon was the losing pitcher.

Thursday night, Phi Alpha and the Bombers played to a 5-5 tie and the game was called on account of darkness.

One of the first WACs to go overseas, she and a WAC captain from Texas landed on an island in New Guinea the latter part of March this year to prepare for the arrival of several hundred WACs.

First Lt. Joseph J. Devine has received the air medal in recognition of exceptionally "meritorious achievements" as a Flying Fortress navigator during many Eighth AAF bombing attacks against Germany and occupied Europe. Lt. J. J. Devine from Scranton, Pa., attended Lackawanna College and the University.

The AAF Training Command recently announced the graduation of another class of fighter and bomber pilots from its eleven advanced schools of the Central Flying Training Command.

Former University students in this class receiving rank of second lieutenants were Fletcher P. Reynolds, Jacksonville, Fla.; Henry A. Davis, Alverda, Pa.; Wallace M. Buell, Kensington, Md. and Leonard F. Heinecke, Washington, D. C.

Balance Due Soon On Cherry Tree

Editor Mary Ring announced last week that the Cherry Tree is scheduled for release on or before June 10. Therefore all students who are leaving town before that date are requested to stop in the Comptroller's Office and pay the balance due on the annual, plus twenty cents to partly defray mailing expenses.
